From Routledge : Innovation Governance in an Open Economy: Shaping Regional Nodes in a Globalized World (Regions and Cities) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Innovation Governance in an Open Economy: Shaping Regional Nodes in a Globalized World (Regions and Cities):

In an increasingly globalised world, paradoxically regional innovation clusters have moved to the forefront of attention as a strategy for economic and social development. Transcending international success cases, like Silicon Valley and Route 128, as sources of lessons, successful high tech clusters in niche areas have had a significant impact on peripheral regions. Are these successful innovation clusters born or made? If they are subject to planning and direction, what is the shape that it takes: top down, bottom up or lateral?
