

[Download pdf] IT-Enabled Business Change: Successful Management

IT-Enabled Business Change: Successful Management

Sharm Manwani

*ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

Download

Read Online

#2591229 in eBooks 2008-09-01 2008-09-01 File Name: B004G8QZVK | File size: 74.Mb

Sharm Manwani : IT-Enabled Business Change: Successful Management before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised IT-Enabled Business Change: Successful Management:

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. IT-Enabled Business Change across Enterprises!By Martins AdegokeAs an Oracle IT professional who is interested in management IT consulting and with curent efforts towards gaining admission for an MBA, i think i found the "IT Enabled Business Change" book by Prof. Sharm Manwani very relevant. However, i have just started reading the introductory and early chapters of the book. By and large, CIOs, CTOs, C-level Executives, senior IT consultants, IT Enterprise Architects, senior Business Analysts and IT Project Managers amongst other cadre of senior IT professionals and business executives should find the book very relevant in the delivery of IT enabled business change or in the alignment of IT and business systems towards delivering a holistic, transformative business change across enterprises. Thank you. 0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. SolidBy Cowboy911 Looking for materials on Business Led Change and found this book and decided to give it a look. Its a bit dated(2008) but covers contemporary topics relevant to the Business Led Change topic I was researching. Included a life cycle for IT Enabled Change, Governance Impact and Outsourcing considerations.

The high-profile failure of major IT-related projects in both public and private sectors underlines the need for stringent change management. As businesses increasingly look to IT to enable that change, this book examines the types of business change processes that involve the use of IT, from the reasons organisations change the way they work, to how that change is managed and implemented. The intended audience includes business and IT executives, managers, professionals and expert users.

Our ability to successfully enable business change seems inversely proportional to what we invent. This book brings together common sense and best practice to help address this situation. Well worth reading, for IT professionals and business managers alike.--John Suffolk
From the Inside Flap
Our ability to successfully enable business change seems inversely proportional to what we invent. This book brings together common sense and best practice to help address this situation. Well worth reading, for IT professionals and business managers alike. - John Suffolk, Her Majesty's Government Chief Information Officer.
From the Back Cover
Our ability to successfully enable business change seems inversely proportional to what we invent. This book brings together common sense and best practice to help address this situation. Well worth reading, for IT professionals and business managers alike. (John Suffolk, Her Majesty's Government Chief Information Officer).
Future-proofing your organisation in response to external challenges requires the ability to deliver successful business change. The high profile failure of major IT-related projects in recent times underlines the impact on commercial outcomes. This book explores how IT can be utilised to deliver effective change, providing practical guidance on the entire process, from identification and sponsorship to implementation and benefits review. Key areas covered include: Strategic alignment and execution of change The IT-enabled business change lifecycle Integrated approach to change Skills and techniques needed at each stage Key business and IT roles
Dr Sharm Manwani obtained his MBA and Doctorate at Henley Business School, where he now lectures and directs programmes in IT-enabled business change. Previously, he was the European CIO at two leading multinationals, directing large-scale international IT-enabled change programmes, supporting mergers, business process redesign and organisation restructuring.