

[Read and download] Proposal Planning Writing (Grantselect)

Proposal Planning Writing (Grantselect)

Lynn E. Miner

*ePub | DOC | audiobook | ebooks | Download PDF

DOWNLOAD

+

READ ONLINE

#2659372 in eBooks 2003-02-28 1993-05-31 File Name: B000QECX2S | File size: 75.Mb

Lynn E. Miner : Proposal Planning Writing (Grantselect) before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Proposal Planning Writing (Grantselect):

0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Not what I expectedBy Amelia PeaceThe book discusses in like three chapters on how to use the internet which is a terrible sign. I found some decent advice but would have gathered their tips off the internet. Not worth it.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. Grant Proposals That WIN!By Susan Bender PhelpsMiner Miner have written a timeless workbook that, when you follow their advice, improve your rate of return exponentially. I recommend this book to anyone who wants to write fund-raising proposals that sing, "Fund me! Fund me!"6 of 6 people found the following review helpful. Solid Info for Grantwriters!By Virginia AllainThis book offers specific examples, models, and step-by-step instructions on how to write all kinds of grants, from local and federal government programs to grants from private foundations and corporations. More than 300 Web sites are described, as is the use of search engines to develop better proposals. The authors also present scores of concrete writing examples and time-saving tips from successful grantseekers. (summary by South Texas Library System)The author, Miner, has an online newsletter (Grantseeker Tips) as well, that I've subscribed to for years. Her advice is very practical and to the point. You can't go wrong with this book to guide you.

Writing proposals to win grant funding can be daunting, difficult, and time-consuming. This clearly written, reassuring book offers specific examples, models, and step-by-step instructions to guide readers through the maze of grantseeking for all kinds of grants, from local and federal government programs, to grants from private foundations and corporations. Particular attention is paid to using the computer and the Internet to help in applying for grants. Over 300 helpful Web sites are described, as are the use of search engines to develop better proposals. This guide assists grantseekers with: Developing ideas; Identifying and qualifying potential funding sources; Setting up systems and procedures to support grantseeking activities for the present and future; Developing the components of the proposal; Budget forecasting; Submission procedures; and Follow-up techniques.

?Of particular help for small and medium sized public libraries that can afford only a few grant seeking resources. All collections can benefit, as the advice and directions offered enable novice grant seekers to see an overview with specifics to get moving.?-Christian Library Journal
About the Author
LYNN E. MINER, Ph.D, is associate dean of the graduate school and director of research and sponsored programs at Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wisconsin.
JEREMY T. MINER is completing his master of arts degree at the University of Minnesota, where he teaches courses in technical writing. JERRY GRIFFITH, Ph.D., is president of Griffith Associates, Inc., a health care management consulting firm in Loudon, Tennessee.