Ray Avery : Rebel With a Cause before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised Rebel With a Cause:

1 of 1 people found the following review helpful. Amazing storyBy James NZIncredible story, well written, touching and inspiring. Starting with an abusive childhood and grinding poverty, Ray reaches the heights of success, and accidentally finds himself in a position where he is the one person who can do what is required in a situation of dire need for an entire nation. It will be the toughest task, for him and his colleagues. Ray is cutting in his review of traditional aid agencies, but he backs up his criticism with evidence, and he walks the talk by doing so much good work of his own.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A great New ZealanderBy K. Witten-hannahMost New Zealanders know something about Ray Avery and the contribution he has made to medicine in the third world. This book gives us a chance to find out about Ray Avery the man through his own personal account. We get insight into his life and work.It is also well written and a great read.0 of 0 people found the following review helpful. A great read. Amazing to learn how someone can survive ...By Kindle CustomerVery enlightening. A great read. Amazing to learn how someone can survive a terrible childhood but remain positive and achieve a phenomenal career. Admire the leadership strategies and the work that is currently being carried out for those in impoverished conditions.

Bestselling memoir of a true Kiwi hero whose can-do attitude is changing lives in the third world. Sir Ray Avery's story from childhood neglect to scientist, leader and philanthropist is riveting. He was the inaugural Kiwibank New Zealander of the Year in 2010 and the recipient of the Sir Peter Blake Medal for Leadership 2010, and was knighted in 2011. As a scientist and businessman, he has invented inexpensive lenses for cataract sufferers, low-cost and effective incubators for babies, and a number of other creative scientific and medicinal solutions for the third world. Sir Ray encourages other talented people to get on board and tackle some of the really big problems confronting the poor in developing countries. Rebel With a Cause is fascinating, deeply moving and, at times, very funny. Above all, it's an engaging read about how one man truly can change the world. 'The remarkable story of one of the most extraordinary lives ever lived - and one gets the sense that he's only just getting started. Mr Ray is one of the reasons it's so cool to live in New Zealand.' - Oscar Kightley 'Ray Avery is a remarkable individual who overcame the odds to become an inspiration to all New Zealanders. This is a man who believed in himself and rose above his circumstances to attain excellence.' - Prime Minister, John Key, presenting the Kiwibank New Zealander of the Year award

About the AuthorRay Avery was named the Kiwibank New Zealander of the Year in 2010 for of his work in the Third World using his scientific and business knowledge to provide cheap cataract operations, cheap and more effective incubators for babies and other creative scientific solutions. Today he encourages other talented people to get on board and tackle some of the really big problems confronting the poor in developing countries. From his garage in Mt Eden, Auckland, Ray manages a global network of experts to work on specific projects.
